

JOIN THE GENDER AND DIVERSITY READING GROUP!

Are you interested in exploring gender and diversity from a practical as well as theoretical point of view? Are you looking for literature on the topics and don't know where to start? Are you analyzing films and other media as part of your studies and need tools or guidance on how to include diverse perspectives?

Join our Reading Group and be part of the future.film.education project! We invite you to bring texts, films and other media works you would like to discuss.

Our research team will support you in discussing these works from an intersectional perspective in a rich international setting. You will also meet students from other countries who are also engaging with similar questions and with whom you can exchange ideas.

future.film.education is co-funded by the ERASMUS+ programme and was initiated by the ifs internationale filmschule köln (DE), Moholy Nagy University of Art and Design (HU) and COFAC/Universidade

The reading group aims to foster discussions on gender and diversity that are informed by the students' own research practice and to guide them in reviewing their own artistic and academic work. In each session, we will discuss a text, film or art work proposed by a student from one of the film schools.

The reading group will meet every last Wednesday of the month, starting in March 2022, at 16h (WET).
